At an alleged bootleggers' picnic near Saratoga Sunday evening there occurred a battle royal which left tragedy in its wake. Pistol shots rolled an accompaniment to the burping of the booze barons, and when the smoke of battle cleared away one man was dead, several others bore gunshot wounds, and the local constable, badly beaten up, was charged by picnicers as having "done all the shooting." The gathering, said to be the annual outing of Valley bootleggers, started out nicely. With the introduction of firewater, however, the merrymaking became audible for some distance, and outraged citizens called for the law to take a hand. Regardless of how the fight actually started, regardless of who did the shooting, the fact remains that booze was a paramount factor in paving the way to the fray. Of that there seems no doubt—no one denies the presence of liquor at the party.

Hot blood, hot liquor, and the intervention of authority: the perfect ingredients for a big kettle of trouble. The blood cannot well be dispensed with, restraining authority seems to be necessary, but the booze could be sacrificed toward the satisfaction of law and order. The incumbent sheriff is gradually getting the situation in hand insofar as this county is concerned, but there seems to be considerable work yet to be done. A repetition of Sunday's occurrence would probably net the county unfavorable nation-wide publicity.

Yesterday the divorce mills of Reno ground out 111 decrees—222 shackled souls once more free to flit about in the sunshine, unencumbered by a mean, jealous, cruel or indifferent mate. The writer would like to gamble that quite a few of them will, before the year is out, be unable to resist the lure of a second venture into the stormy seas—and that's what helps keep things rolling in Reno.—"I'd like to roll to Reno some day before I'm old . . . ."

American newspaper men who in August will attend a convention in Mexico City will be permitted to take with them 40 packs of American cigarettes each. That concession will undoubtedly save the life of more than one editor (worse luck), because the native "gaspers" are pretty bad. The newspaper boys will also be permitted to carry side arms and 50 rounds of ammunition. We can't figure that out, unless the Mexicans plan to stage a little revolution in recognition of the Los Angeles Community Chest and want the lads to feel right at home. Armed, and possessing 50 rounds of ammunition, they can enter into the spirit of the thing—and they'll have no one but themselves to blame if they should happen to get shot.

Hoover's proposal to postpone for a year payment of Europe's war debt to the United States is meeting with considerable favor abroad. It might be a good thing—certainly if it will put whip and spur to "prosperity" which, according to some of our

H. S. BOARD CUTS COST OF MAINTENANCE

At a meeting of the local high school board last week trustees of the Campbell Union High School district reached the decision to reduce high school taxes to 44 cents on the hundred dollars of assessed valuation, as against 53 cents for last year. The 53 cent tax was itself an example of economy, and the additional reduction is the result not only of more rigid economy but the decrease in prices of commodities used in the school.

No salaries are to be cut in spite of the decreased revenue, and there will be no lose in efficiency through the lesser revenue, declared members of the board.

Archbishop Hanna Warns Merchants Beware Imposters

San Francisco, June 23—Through the churches of the archdiocese, Archbishop Edward J. Hanna today issued a warning to merchants to be on the lookout for persons attempting to use the name of the Catholic church in connection with the solicitation of advertising and the publication of printed matter. He called attention to the fact that the only official organ of the archdiocese is The Monitor, published in San Francisco, and said in part:

"Only one agency in the archdiocese of San Francisco has been authorized to publish any form of printed matter in the name of the Catholic church or to solicit advertising for the same with the understanding that it is to benefit the church or any part thereof, directly or indirectly.

"That agency is The Monitor, official organ of the archdiocese, and the public is warned that all others attempting to use the name of the church or claiming its approbation are guilty of misrepresentation and of obtaining money under false pretenses."

C. Of C. Board Approve Insurance For Harry Evans

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce liability insurance in the amount of $10,000 for Harry Evans, night patrolman, was approved. Compensation insurance already covers the patrolman.

At this meeting it was also suggested that the regular meeting nights of the Chamber of Commerce be changed from the second Monday of each month to the first Tuesday in order that the date may not conflict with any lodge meetings. These matters will be submitted to the entire organization at the next regular meeting, Monday, July 13.

Ritter Hall, New Scripps Laboratory Nears Completion

La Jolla, June 23—Ritter Hall, the new laboratory building now under construction at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California, at La Jolla ,is expected to be ready for occupancy about Sept. 1, according to information submitted to Director T. Wayland Vaughan. The general construction of the building will be completed about July 1, it is stated, after which the plumbing and electrical fixtures and equipment will be installed, as well as the furniture. The building when completed will cost approximately $120,000.

A total of 13,800 square feet of laboratory space will be afforded by the new building. The ground dimensions of the structure are 46 by 100 feet, and there are three floors, each with ceilings 11 feet high. Modern laboratories, some of them connected with even-temperature rooms, are being fitted up throughout the building. Many of the laboratories have special heating and ventilation provisions, as well as convenient hot and cold water, and distilled water accommodations.

REBEKAH LODGE INITIATES TWO CANDIDATES

The Ada Rebekah lodge held regular meeting Tuesday evening at the Odd Fellows hall, and initiated two candidates into the order. Degrees were conferred by Templar Rebekah lodge of San Francisco. Over 200 members and visitors from other lodges, including Sunnyvale, Los Gatos, Palo Alto, Saratoga and San Jose, witnessed the impressive ceremonies.

Mrs. Lillian Ohlen, district deputy president, was presented with a collar, the regalia of her office, by Horace Lea, district deputy grand master, on behalf of the Ada Rebekah lodge and the staff.

A social hour followed in the beautifully decorated banquet room, with Grace Fruedenthal, noble grand, as the chairman of festivities.

Officers will be installed Tuesday, June 30.

Sunnyvale "Goddess Of Liberty" Race Has First Tally

The qualifying count of Goddess of Liberty candidates in the Santa Clara County Fourth of July and Navy Airbase Celebration contest, held Saturday, June 20, disclosed a most satisfactory condition. Candidates from every section of Santa Clara county and Santa Cruz, who had entered the contest during the last two weeks, cast their one hundred votes necessary to secure the 5,000 bonus votes given by the committee.

The following communities are represented by: Elfriede Konig, Mountain View; Helen Wright, Palo Alto; Phylles Rivas, Santa Clara, Dorothy Krill, Sunnyvale; Winifred Mariani, Cupertino; Bernice Ray, Gilroy; Irene Pilkington, Santa Cruz, Helen Gifford, Morgan Hill; Helen Ferro, Campbell, and Helen Herbert, San Jose.

The relative strength of the candidates will be more clearly defined by the second count to be held Thursday, June 25, at which time the candidate casting the greatest number of votes will be given 5,000 bonus votes; the next highest, 4,900; the next, 4,800, and so on. As the difference of even the smallest number of votes will entitle the higher one to a hundred more bonus votes, it is reasonable to expect each candidate will strive to be as high as possible in the standing in this particular count.

Free Movie Shows Ford Auto Plant

A sound picture graphically portraying the story of the Ford Motor company and its widespread activities will be exhibited free of charge in a special Ford Exhibit to be held at the Dunlap & Smily garage, local Ford dealers, Friday, July 10. The show will be open to the public from early forenoon until late in the evening.

The picture, entitled "A Tour Through the Ford Factory" will show the gathering of raw materials, their arrival at the Rouge plant in Dearborn, Mich., and the numerous interesting stages through which they pass in the process of making Ford cars and trucks. It is, in short, an education in the extent and meaning of modern volume production.

While an unseen voice explains each scene, the audience is taken on a tour of the plant, through the great blast furnace building where ore is converted into iron; into the open hearth building where the iron becomes steel and is poured, a white hot liquid, into moulds; into the blooming mill where the steel ingots are made into bars; and into the rolling mill in which the long bars of white hot steel are reduced to definite sizes. Forty kinds of steel, each of a composition to serve a definite purpose, are used in the Ford car and truck.

The picture shows also the manufacture of glass in an endless unbroken strip, a process developed by Ford engineers; the machine shops in which parts for the car are manufactured; the pressed steel building with its gigantic presses; and the coke ovens and other units in which by-products are recovered to the extent of millions of dollars annually.

Throughout the picture one sees literally miles and miles of conveyors which take much of the manual labor off the backs of men. There are conveyors carrying newly arrived materials into the plant, others taking parts from one building to another, and, of course, the final assembly line, that famous conveyor on which the parts are put together to form the completed car.

In addition to the picture, there will be a representative line of Ford cars and trucks and display boards containing car and truck parts.

The cars alone are well worth a visit for they include body types to suit any taste and to meet any occasion. Particularly attractive are the de luxe cars in which upholstery appointments are of a kind and quality usually found only in more expensive automobiles.

All the body types are featured by the Ford's new beauty of line and color. The deep radiator, the wide gen-

President Hoover Delivers Addresses in Three Middle West States—Moves Toward Restoration of Economic Prosperity.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

President Hoover

RESPONSIBILity for the existing economic depression in the United States should be laid to frozen confidence rather than to frozen assets, according to President Hoover, who addressed the Indiana Republican Editorial association and its guests in Indianapolis. The Chief Executive expressed his hopes and plans for renewed prosperity which shall be wrought out of the nation's great natural resources by a people with renewed courage; and he vigorously defended the course of his administration in the crisis and denounced panaceas for recovery.

After alluding to the Russian five-year plan, Mr. Hoover proposed what he called an American plan. Said he:

"We plan to take care of 20,000,000 increase in population in the next 20 years. We plan to build for them 4,000,000 new and better homes, thousands of new and still more beautiful city buildings, thousands of factories; to increase capacity of our railroads; to add thousands of miles to our highways and waterways; to install 25,000,000 electrical horse power. We plan to provide new parks, schools, colleges and churches for this 20,000,000 people. We plan to secure greater diffusion of wealth, a decrease in poverty and a great reduction in crime."

From Indianapolis the President and his party, which included Mrs. Hoover and their son, Allan, went to Marion, Ohio, and took part in the dedication of the magnificent memorial to Warren G. Harding. Mr. Hoover delivered the chief address in which he severely condemned the "friends" who betrayed Harding's trust. Former Senator Freylinghuysen, president of the memorial association, presented the memorial to the association, and Calvin Coolidge, who succeeded Harding in the Presidency, replied in acceptance. Gov. George White accepted the structure on behalf of the state. Immediately after the ceremonies Mr. Hoover went to Columbus and reviewed a parade of Civil war veterans attending the Ohio G. A. R. encampment.

Next day the presidential party journeyed to Springfield, Ill., for the dedication of the remodeled tomb of Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Hoover was the guest of Governor Emmerson and again delivered the main speech at the imposing ceremonies.

The political implications of President Hoover's trip to the Middle West were evident and not denied. The three states he visited have all caused alarm among the Republican leaders by their votes in recent elections. Only last November Illinois replaced a Republican senator with a Democrat and sent five more Democrats to the house in place of Republicans; Ohio elected a Democratic governor and sent six Democrats to congress in place of Republicans, and Indiana replaced six Republican congressmen with Democrats. The Republican managers hoped the presidential tour would have effect in bringing these states back into the fold, and there was also the expectation that it would help in promoting Mr. Hoover's prospects for renomination and re-election. That he is a candidate is no longer in doubt, if it ever was. The recent conference of young Republicans in Washington, under the guidance of Senator Fess, national Republican chairman, made that certain.

J. W. Gerard

IN A letter to leaders of American industry and organized labor the National Civic federation takes the first step in setting up a ten year plan of systemizing production, eliminating unemployment and integrating the industrial and economic structure of the nation. The letter was signed by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and now the chairman of the federation's commission on industrial inquiry. It is based on a proposal made by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and urges the calling of a national congress to discuss and formulate a program of industrial readjustment and create permanent machinery for this purpose.

Mr. Gerard's letter was addressed to all leading manufacturers in the country, officials of the American Federation of Labor and heads of all international unions. The letter declares that Mr. Wool's proposal for a great congress of industry has received the indorsement of the National Civic federation and expresses the readiness of the federation to summon such a congress "if it can have reasonable assurance that the reponse will be such as to make success probable." Manufacturers and labor leaders were asked to state their opinion and that of their organizations on the proposal and to advise whether they would participate in a preliminary meeting that might be held before the formal calling of the congress.

"What is desired is to draw together a great conclave of delegates, not a mere collection of individuals without representative character," Mr. Gerard's letter declared.

W. A. Castle

EUROPE rather expects that when Secretary of State Stimson gets over there for his visits to various capital cities it will be revealed that the United States government will consent, under certain conditions, to alter its stand on reparations and war debts. And in this country there are indications that this may be true. Undersecretary of State William A. Castle gave out a statement the other day to the effect that the government does not consider its position as signifying an inflexible thesis, and there have been strong hints at the White House that President Hoover would not oppose the scaling down of war debts if he were assured this would be followed by ample reductions in European armaments.

Mr. Castle said the government is and always has been open minded on the war debt question and has been watching the situation abroad very carefully; he added that no crisis has yet arisen of a nature that would call for any action by this country on the war debts. If such a crisis should arise, he said, it was obvious this government would have to consider whether a temporary change was necessary. Official opinion in Washington was that Mr. Castle's statement was designed to help Chancellor Bruening of Germany in the troubles that beset him.

In Berlin Dr. Karl Wirth, minister of the interior, said: "We are started on the road toward drastic reduction in reparations payments. All necessary steps in this direction have been taken."

Col. E. M. House

FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt's presidential boom was given a decided boost in Massachusetts by the luncheon given by Col. Edward M. House at his summer cottage near Manchester-by-the-Sea. The governor of New York was the guest of honor and among those present were the most influential Democratic leaders of the Bay state. Little was said about politics during the luncheon, but the feeling was general that the affair was of considerable political significance, and friends of Mr. Roosevelt are of the opinion that the Massachusetts delegation in next year's national convention will be in line for his nomination. Just before the party rose from the table Colonel House offered a toast to the governor as the man on whom the eyes of the nation are focused.

It will be remembered that Colonel House recently announced that he was corresponding with leading Democrats with a view to promoting Roosevelt's presidential prospects. Among the guests at the luncheon was Henry Morgenthau, like House a close friend of Woodrow Wilson, and it is believed he has associated himself with House in this movement with the sanction of Roosevelt, although the governor has not yet declared himself a candidate for the presidential nomination.

AL CAPONE, the world's most notorious gangster, will have to spend some years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Before Federal Judge Wilkerson in Chicago he pleaded guilty to indictments for evasions of income tax payments and for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. He will be sentenced on June 30, probably to from two to four years in prison. Sixty-eight members of Capone's gang also are under indictment for the liquor law conspiracy. Capone's rule as king of gangland is ended.

MINNEAPOLIS was the host of the national conference of social work and its associated groups in their fifty-eighth annual meeting, and naturally unemployment and its social consequences provided the subject matter of much of the debate and deliberations. One of the prominent men in attendance was Fred C. Croxton, acting chairman of the President's emergency committee for employment. At a preliminary session and later before the conference he outlined plans for relief for next fall and winter, when, he thought, the need for help will be greater than ever. The committee is first to make a survey of 376 cities with a population of 25,000 or over to determine coming needs and resources. He said conditions produced by subnormal business activity can best be handled by local agencies.

"Employers have spread work and maintained wage rates to a degree that has never been apparent in any previous period of this kind," Croxton said. "This country has been better organized by states and local communities than ever before to meet the effects of unemployment.

"These and other activities for the promotion of employment which have been carried on co-operatively by the state and local committees and industrial groups and the President's committee will be continued. Demands upon philanthropic and charitable agencies during the coming winter are likely to be heavy."

Juan Vicente Gomez

JUAN BAUTISTA Perez, obeying a demand made by the congress of Venezuela, resigned from the presidency of that republic, after evading for some time the oral and written suggestions of members of congress that he step out of office. The drive against him was managed by supporters of Juan Vicente Gomez who were determined that the veteran should resume the place he held for 20 years from the time of Castro's downfall until May, 1929. He retired then on his own motion and when Perez was elected to succeed him the constitution was amended to permit Gomez to become commander-in-chief of the army and to be responsible only to congress. An academic, rather than active type, President Perez left the task of putting down insurrections—three of which have occurred since he took office—to General Gomez and his army of 12,000 men.

Gomez, in fact, has been almost as much the ruler of the country since retiring as he was before, and his return to the presidency in the election set for June 19 was considered certain. He is getting to be an old man but retains his youthful vigor and picturesqueness, and probably is the man Venezuela needs.

MISS ANNA ADAMS GORDON, former president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union and of the World W. C. T. U., died in Castile, N. Y., at the age of seventy-eight years. She was a close friend of the late Frances E. Willard, helped her organize the W. C. T. U. and for many years was her secretary. She was one of the best known of temperance leaders of this generation.

NEARLY 500 persons, most of them women and children, perished when a French excursion steamer capsized near St. Nazaire during a storm. Only eight of those aboard the vessel were saved.

The submarine Nautilus, carrying Sir Hubert Wilkins' under-ice polar expedition, was disabled in mid-Atlantic by the breaking down of her engines, and was taken in tow by the American warship Wyoming.

CARDINAL SEGURA, the exiled primate, slipped back into Spain the other day but was promptly apprehended and ushered out again across the French border. His presence in Spain threatened a recurrence of the attacks on church institutions, for the radicals were enraged by the news of his return. The Vatican protested his expulsion.

ONE more member of the federal farm board—the third within a few months—has resigned from that body. He is Samuel R. McKelvie, the wheat member of the board, and he said that as his term had just ended presidential acceptance of his resignation was not necessary. His successor has not yet been announced. Mr. McKelvie, who took part in the recent grain conference in London, will retire to his large live stock ranch in Nebraska.

Paul Doumer

WITH all the traditional splendor and ceremony Paul Doumer was inaugurated as the new president of the French republic, succeeding Gaston Doumergue. Premier Laval called at the senate for M. Doumer and took him to the presidential palace, their automobile being escorted by cavalry through the throngs of cheering citizens, as the artillery fired the 21 gun salute. At the palace the retiring president transferred his office to his successor, and M. Doumer received the insignia of grand master of the Legion of Honor from the hands of General Dubail, head of the organization.

President Doumer's first official act was to go to the city hall and be received by the council, after which he proceeded to the Arc de Triomphe and there, in a solemn ceremony, relighted the eternal flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier. This rite was especially moving, for M. Doumer lost four of his five sons in the war.

President Doumer received the resignation of Premier Pierre Laval and his cabinet and urgently requested Laval to retain his office. The latter consented and offered for the president's acceptance an unchanged ministry, including Foreign Minister Briand.

NETTA DUCHATEAU of Belgium was selected as "Miss Universe" at the international beauty pageant in Galveston, Texas. She is seventeen years old and has long dark hair.

MESDAMES PALMER AND RUDOLPH ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Mrs. Allen Rudolph and her mother, Mrs. J. E. Palmer, presided over a charmingly appointed luncheon at the former's attractive country home on Moorpark avenue Tuesday of last week.

Lovely bouquets including a wide variety of the summer flowers from the gardens of the hostess and her friends decorated the living and dining rooms.

For the luncheon, eight guests were seated at a long table covered with a cut Madeira cloth, at which Mrs. Palmer was hostess. Small tables were placed in the living room for other groups.

The afternoon was enjoyably spent with bridge, following a new travel idea in accordance with directions on the score cards and tallies. The favors awarded were in keeping with the vacation idea.

Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Rudolph were for a number of years residents of Campbell and their guests included friends from here and San Jose.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gardner and daughters, and Bernard Whitford are vacationing at Lake Tahoe for a few weeks.
